THE WHITE LOT.

The Dedication of Grand Army Place, Washington.

Commander-in-Chief Palmer Makes the Introductory Address.

Eulogizing the Heroes of the Conflict of the Sixties—Vice-President Morton Speaks in Place of the President. Who Is at His Wife's Bedside.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Preliminary to the festivities of the week was the dedication of Grand Army place, located on the famous White lot just south of the White House grounds. This place grew up under the inspiration of the suggestion that there should be some central point where the veterans might meet their associates of the war.

The plaza surrounding the flag-tower where the dedicatory exercise were held, was crowded to its utmost capacity before noon, the hour fixed for the event.

Vice-President Morton and Commander-in-Chief Palmer were escorted to their places on the stand after reviewing the parade. The 1,500 seats on the platform were occupied by prominent G. A. R. and W. R. C officers and government officials—a most distinguished gathering.

The assembly on the bugle secured partial order, and the band played a national air, after which Rev. S. H. Payne, D. D., of Ocean Grove, N. J., chaplain-in-chief, delivered the dedication prayer. Another air by the Marine band followed, and then Commander-in-chief Palmer made the introductory address. As he arose on the platform the old soldiers gave him almost affectionate greeting.

He spoke as follows:

Comrades: For the first time since the close of the great civil conflict you will have an opportunity of meeting your comrades in arms in a headquarters provided for each of the great army corps that existed during the war.

The thought that so many of our gallant leaders can not be with us to-day fills our hearts with many sad reflections. They would respond as cheerfully at the call of friendship as they did in 1861 to the call of duty. The vacant places they have left in our ranks are more suggestive than the presence of the living, and if they are not with us to-day it is because other glories are reserved for them, while we are left with others to enjoy the fruits of their great labor. To-day you will meet and look into the faces of comrades you have not seen for years. You will take each other by the hand and recall the scenes and incidents through which you have passed, and repeat the story of how the battle was won.

Comrades, I know you will share my feelings of profound regret over the circumstances which caused the absence of one whom you would all have been delighted to see and hear and who had anticipated joining you in all the festivities of the week, a comrade whose gallant services to the nation in the hour of peril has been supplemented by his wise and patriotic management of the affairs of this great republic in time of peace—Comrade Benjamin Harrison.

Before introducing Vice-President Morton, Gen. Palmer read the telegram from President Harrison:

"I look forward with much interest to the great rehearsal in Washington next Tuesday of the victors' march of 1865. I would have esteemed it one of the highest honors of my public life to have welcomed to the national capital, and to have received on its historic avenue, this representative assembly of the men who not only saved the nation from threatened destruction, but made it the worthy political capital of an unbroken union.

"It would also have been one of the most fervored and tender incidents of my private life to have taken these comrades by the hand again but all this has been denied to me by the interventions of a sad and imperative duty, and I can only ask you to give to all my cordial greeting and good wishes."

Enthusiastic cheering, which lasted some time, following. The demonstration was a striking tribute to the soldier-president.

Vice-President Morton was warmly received when he arose. He said:

"A sorrow that brings all our sympathies together calls me to take the place in these ceremonies of the president. The president would speak to you as a comrade, but he asks me to greet you in behalf of the business interests affecting the whole people; on behalf of all men and women from every section who love the union. I bid you welcome on behalf of the president and his cabinet advisers; on behalf of the congress of the United States and the National judiciary, administering collectively the government you have secured, and on behalf of a whole people made glorious by your heroism and that of your adversaries, now your friends. I greet you on behalf of a sunwart north and a loyal south, of a sun illumed east and commanding west, under the shadows of the capitol you have preserved in this beautiful city founded by Washington and made sacred by the services and sufferings of Lincoln, and in full view of Virginia, the birth-place of presidents and the burial place of heroes.

"Your march to-day and to-morrow will recall to you as it will to us, the great review when Grant ranged himself by the side of the president of the United States. There are brilliant illustrations of your prowess still leading our ranks, or among them, and I wish you could summon them all, but the glories of the battle-names recall them with vivid personality. In the order of time, this may or may not be your last grand review, but I express the hope of a grateful people that Heaven will bounteously lengthen out your lives, before you are called to the other shore to join the ranks of your companions.

"Now, my countrymen, on behalf of the whole American people, I dedicate this "Grand Army Place."

God bless you all, and those who to-day unite with you in strengthening the union of the great republic.

The flag on the staff, one hundred and fifty feet high, was then unfurled and saluted by a park of artillery. With the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Marine Band, the dedication of Grand Army Place was complete, and the thousands of comrades dispersed.

Another Crash in London.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The Commercial Deposit, a permanent building society, suspended payment Monday morning. An excited crowd gathered around the doors indignant and vociferous. The society was established in 1863. This is another significant proof of the existing commercial and industrial depression.

Why Priest Jacot Was Decorated.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times says: "Emperor William has decorated Abbe Jacot, priest, with the insignia of the Order of the Red Eagle, for inculcating on his people the cordial acceptance of German rule."

Against New York Clothing.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—The state board of health has been requested by the Anti-Tenement House league of this city to quarantine all clothing manufactured in New York.

WALKING HOME WITH MARY.

In all the changing scenes of life,
Scenes that so widely vary,
I've never spent a happier hour
Than walking home with Mary.

How often as a boy, when life
Was young and glad and hearty,
By starlight I have seen her home
From singing school or party.

We knew not then how good they were,
The hours we passed together,
As hand in hand, with light-some hearts,
We strolled across the heather.

Though since those days Mary's side
To distant lands I've wandered,
The time I've spent away from her
To me seems vainly squandered.

Last night once more I saw her home
The stars were blinking blindly
Through cobwebs strung, but into mine
Her eyes were beaming kindly.

We talked of all the happy past,
Of pleasures long departed,
And both confessed that 'mid the years
We had been heavy-hearted.

And ere we reached her father's home
I told her how I missed her,
And while we lingered at the gate
I stooped and fondly kissed her.

Before we parted 'twas agreed
Our paths no more should vary;
No more am I a rover I'm soon;
I'm going to marry Mary.

THE Chicago Trades and Labor Assembly declined the invitation of the World's Fair directors to take part in the dedication parade next month on the ground that workingmen could not indorse the fair as long as its doors were to be closed on Sundays.

THE result of the primary convention in the Sixth Congressional District does not throw much light on the probable outcome of the convention to be held at Wasgaw, September 27th. The indications point to a warm contest between Hon. Thos. F. Hallam, Hon. A. S. Berry and the incumbent, Mr. Dickerson.

WILLIAM JACKSON was shot and badly wounded at Covington by P. Conners. Both had been calling on the same girl, Miss Jennie Russell. They were at her house and undertook to decide by a game at cards who should be her escort for a walk. Jackson won, and Conners was so enraged that he pulled out a pistol and fired at Jackson, sending a bullet into his side. The wound is a bad one, but not fatal. Conners has fled to avoid arrest.

A NIGHT ON THE ROAD.

On the Lookout for Possible Cholera Germs—The Work of Inspection.

It will be a sly old cholera germ that runs the gauntlet of the health officers and gets into either Cincinnati or Maysville alive, via the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. An admirable system of precaution prevails along this great interstate highway and no train passes Maysville going from East to West without undergoing a rigid inspection.

Engaged in this work are three physicians, Dr. C. C. Owens, City Physician of this city, Dr. C. T. Pearce of this city and Dr. J. I. Bonar of the Cincinnati Health Board, a gentleman and a scholar. Associated with them are officers Goepper and Ressler, two of the best and most intelligent men on the Cincinnati police force. The Maysville officers are also at the disposal of the City Physician. One of the physicians and generally two officers are on hand at some station East of Maysville to board each train. The place of entering these trains is either at Vanceburg, Portsmouth, Ashland or Catlettsburg.

Last night when No. 4, Eastbound, rolled into Maysville, an hour late, Dr. Owens, Officer Goepper and a representative of THE LEDGER got on and made the run to Catlettsburg, where we were to meet No. 1 at 3:44 o'clock this morning, providing of course, she was on time.

The train was crowded. A sent in any of the coaches was an impossibility. Good company was found in the persons of Adjutant General H. H. Oxley of West Virginia, a gentleman of the old school, though a Democrat, and Captain E. W. Fitzgerald of the C. and O. Under the guidance of Captain Fitzger ald the whole party adjourned to the dining car.

It was first the intention to get off at Vanceburg but reports of a malady prevailing there, more insectious than infections caused the plan to be altered. Ashland was next discussed as a place of refuge for the night, but it was successfully argued that the hotels were entirely too far from the depot. Finally we went as far as our authority extended—to Catlettsburg.

We reached this rendezvous of log rafts and sand bars shortly before midnight. Much time was wasted in hunting for and disposing of my oyster stew and in sightseeing. The few persons abroad told us that Lewis, and especially the Jailer, had been honored during the day by a visit from Alonzo Brookshire, the murderer of Juller Tipton of Montgomery county, whom a posse of officers were taking to the Frankfort Penitentiary in this roundabout way from Menifee county, in order to escape a mob who were down in the mountains clamoring for the prisoner's life.

When we finally got into the Alger Hotel it was concluded to be too late to retire, only about two hours remaining until our train would come by. Everybody huddled in a big arm chair before the fire in the hotel office, but nobody could sleep much except our policeman. He was an adept.

When the train was nearly due it was announced that she was forty five minutes late. In railroad parlance this may be understood to mean an hour, and finally it did come one hour and nine minutes behind schedule time.

Most of the passengers on the train were enjoying a morning nap, and the inspecting party retired into the smoking car until getting up time.

When Ashland was reached the party was reinforced by Dr. Bonar and Officer Ressler and W. H. Lynch of this city. At Portsmouth the sleepy passengers showing signs of awakening, the real work of the trip was begun.

First the baggage car was entered and the trunks, valises, boxes and bundles were carefully looked over. Some of these trunks and parcels might have come direct from the infected ships in New York harbor, and the object of this search is to find out if any of them bear a foreign mark of any kind. No danger is apprehended from the baggage itself as it has all been thoroughly fumigated and disinfected at quarantine on the sea coast. But the owners must be found. It is in them that the danger lies. They may be even then unconsciously in the clutch of the awful disease, for it is the most stealthy and treacherous foe with which science has to battle.

In the big pile of baggage but one suspicious trunk was found. This was an old leather covered veteran that looked as though it might have stood the storms of many an ocean voyage. It had at sometime in its career unbobstedly in been a foreign land, for on it was a tag which bore an inscription that was decidedly "French." It turned out to be, however, the inoffensive property of an innocent "beal" passenger.

The baggage through with, attention was turned to the passengers, and, beginning with the smoker, the march through the cars was begun. Everyone who had the appearance of an immigrant or showed in a marked degree the stains of travel was interrogated and examined. No one was found who was suspected of being the bearer of cholera germs, so no one was disturbed beyond the questioning.

The same details are gone through with on every train. The train officials are courteous and accommodating and willingly give any information desired. But one case of sickness has been found so far by the physicians on the C. and O. Road, and that was of such a nature as to cause no alarm.

We had left Catlettsburg one hour and nine minutes late and arrived in Maysville just twenty-five minutes behind time, having made up forty-four minutes lost time in the run of ninety miles.

Attention, Sir Knights.

Diarrhœa in Kentucky.

"There has been a continuous tendency to bowel disease here this season," says G. W. Shivell, druggist, Wickliffe, Ky., "and an unusual demand for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. I have sold four bottles of it this morning. Some remarkable cures have been effected by it and in all cases it has proved successful." For sale by Power & Reynolds.

The Nabobs.

Henshaw and Ten Broeck appeared at the Masonic Opera house Saturday evening, in The Nabobs. Notwithstanding the fact that they were immediately following Karl Gardner, the house was nearly filled for the impression left here on two previous occasions gave them a hearty reception. Mr. Henshaw, supported by George Mack and a splendid company, made a great hit Saturday evening. They received continuous encores from the audience, who seemed to want it all played twice in the same evening. A particular feature this year is the singing and dancing of the young ladies, all of whom are splendid actresses. Their costumes are all new, and with the scenery they carry, gives new life to the never tiresome play. The audience was highly pleased and they will always be welcomed in Maysville.

The above is from The Ironton Irontonian. The Nabobs will appear at the Washington Opera house to-night.

Costly Gems Owned By Royalties.

The Empress of Austria is the owner of the largest black pearl in that exist. She used formerly to exhibit them in her hair on all state occasions. Queen Victoria has a necklace of pink pearls which are considered the most beautiful of their kind. Baroness Gustave de Rothchild's collar of pearls, worn by her at the opera, is valued at 40,000 pounds. The most beautiful pearl is generally supposed to be the one which the French traveler, M. Tovernier, three centuries ago sold to the Shah of Persia, and which is still in the possession of the rulers of Persia. The price was 3,375,000 francs. Another Eastern potentate possesses a pearl of 1,271 carats; it is quite transparent and is valued at 1,383,000 francs. A fine Oriental pearl is the one in the possession of the Princess Inssanoff, and which is famous for its unique color. In the years of 1620 this pearl was sold by Georgibus, from Calais, to Philip IV. of Spain for 80,000 ducats; its value is now considered 1,125,000. Pope Leo XIII. has a pearl which is valued at 500,000 francs, and the Empress Frederick's collier of thirty-two pears is valued at 875,000 francs.

In Time of Peace Prepare for War.

Have you ever thought what you would do in case you, or some one of your family, was taken with a severe attack of colic, cholera morbus, dysentery or diarrhœa. In such cases it is not unusual for fatal results to follow before medicine can be procured or a physician summoned. There is nothing that will give permanent relief so quickly as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. It never fails even in the most severe cases either for children or adults. Why not keep it at hand? 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Power & Reynolds, Druggists.

THE PARADE

One of the Finest Ever Seen in This Country.

The Regulars of the Army Make a Magnificent Display.

The Black Troops Receive Their Share of Praise—Another Feature of the Parade Was the Evolutions and "March" of the Bicycle Corps.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The parade Monday was one of the finest ever seen in the country. In spectacular effect and lively interest it was a demonstration with which the coming grand army procession of Tuesday will not compare. The regulars of the army of the United States are always of interest to the people, and a splendid artillery, cavalry, infantry and naval display was made. Pennsylvania avenue was roped off, and from side to side a clear space was made for the parade.

By 11 o'clock the people were packed on each side of the street behind the ropes, and the great display, with floating banners, bands and drum corps began to flow down the avenue. Every spectator's heart thrilled with pride at the appearance made by the U. S. troops. As squadron after squadron of cavalry came sweeping along the avenue, the bugles sounding, the guidons flattering, the sabres and carbines glittering in the sunshine, and the beautiful horses prancing to the music, their course was followed with a roar of cheers and applause.

No heartier cheers were given to any organization than to the black troop that in the last Indian war distinguished itself by a march and fight unexcelled in endurance, dash and daring. The colored cavalry men were the finest horsemen of the line, and that is saying a good deal when the line is made up of U. S. troopers. Their display of horsemanship was simply superb.

Another great feature was the "march" and evolutions of the bicycle corps, the new branch of the farmy. So swift, as well as noiseless, are these soldiers in their movements that they were obliged to continue in drill movements to avoid running against, running around or running over the "horse" cavalry in front of them. They wore their carbines slung behind the right shoulder, and in one movement all draw carbines and fire. In speed, they go away from the horses, and the bicycle never gets hangry, never kicks, never tires, and does not have to be hitched or groomed. The movements of the bicycle to the bugle call were so swift, sure and noiseless as to seem mysterious and almost magical.

The sailor lads always attract attention, and when they came dragging their funny little guns, which are small but devilish in execution, the contrast between the free-and-easy ways and negligee uniform and the strict and beautiful precision of the land troops was vastly entertaining to the people. When there was a halt they sat down on the pavement, lighted cigars and even cigarettes, or walked around with their round white hats over one eye, and a general "by gosh" air that took away all their military opulence.

The appearance of the regular artillery, five thousand district militia, kept up the intense interest feit by the vast throng until the parade ended, as Grand Army place became the gathering place for fifty thousand people as the dedicatory exercises began. Monday night the scenes in Washington were such as were never known before in this country. At least thirty thousand men were marching in parade, hundreds of reunions were going on, the rotunda of the capitol was a great hive, with its thousands of women, and there were so many bands and so much yelling and cheering that one needed a speaking trumpet with which to talk to his near neighbor.

It May Be Cholera.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 20.—A case of suspected cholera is in the hospital here. John Kasick, a Pole, employed in some chemical works on Staten island sound, was admitted to the hospital here, Sunday afternoon, from what physicians are inclined to think is Asiatic cholera. Monday morning the hospital authorities telegraphed to the New York board of health to send a cholera expert to diagnose the case. All the nurses and patients in the hospital who were able to move left the building Monday morning in a fright. The hospital will be quarantined.

Convict Seriously Hurt.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 20.—Alfred A. Knapp, a four-year man from Hamilton county, who is employed in the hoe-polishing shop at the penitentiary, narrowly escaped death, Monday morning. A belt broke and the flying end struck Knapp on the back of the neck, knocking him senseless and tearing a piece of skin from his neck two inches in diameter. He was insensible when carried to the hospital.

Famous Horse Dead.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Blackstone, the favorite saddle-horse of the late Samuel J. Tilden, died of old age at Graystone, the Tilden homestead. He was found dead in the pasture. For some time the horse has been so feeble that it was unable to eat. He was 33 years old.

IN HOC SIGNO VINCES.

A Word to Republicans.

The hope of the party lies in the expansion of a stalwart Republican press. The Republican who reads or otherwise helps to support a Democratic paper to the exclusion of one of his own party newspapers is untrue to the Republican cause.

Unanimously subscribed to by the National Republican League.

J. S. CLARKSON, President.
A. B. HUMPHREY, Secretary.

EVEN the Kentucky Legislature, as worthless as it is, has passed a resolution calling upon President HARRISON to suspend immigration and commerce from cholera infected districts for sixty days. We are in favor of applying the order to some of the non-infected districts, Italy, Hungary and Polish-Russia for example, and extending the limit to sixty years.

THE Mugwumps and Free-traders, backed by a horde of hungry Democrats, now charge that Commissioner PECK has burned a lot of public records, thus rendering it impossible to refute the figures published in his official report. It is said that the missing records are reports from manufacturers throughout the state of New York giving statistics as to wages paid the employes in various industries. Well, suppose these papers have been burned, isn't it easy enought to procure duplicates from the manufacturers? What are the stenographers and type-writers for? Gentlemen, your "racket" is too thin.

OF course the report of Labor Commissioner PECK of New York, citing the industries whereiu wages have been increased by reason of the McKinley Tariff, is crooked. At least that is what is now charged by the Free-trade papers. As Mr. PECK is a Democrat, appointed to his office by GROVER CLEVELAND when he was Governor and subsequently reappointed by Governors HILL and FLOWER, all Democrats;—these facts alone are sufficient proof that Mr. PECK is "crooked." But his official report will stand all the same, and it will not be effected by the silly cry of the Mugwumps and Free-traders whom its fatal figures do not please.

TELL IT ALL.

THE MAYSVILLE PUBLIC LEDGER gives this partial information to its readers:

The American Tin Plate Factory of Elwood, Ind., has been dedicated "as an American industry," and Governor MCKINLEY was the orator of the occasion.

Now let it add the balance of the truth that all the pig tin is imported from Wales and all the workmen are Welsh.—Kentucky Journal.

Of course, the remark of our esteemed contemporary is not true. The pig tin is not imported, neither are the workmen Welsh. But, for the sake of argument, suppose the K. J.'s statement to be true. The finished plate is produced in this country, by workmen who are living among us and who spend their earnings with the merchants of Elwood. Isn't that better than sending the money abroad to be paid out for wages in Wales and spent among Welsh merchants? How would Newport like to have her rolling-mills shut down, her hundreds of workmen sent to England, and the money now paid to them for wages transferred to the other side of the Atlantic? Don't you think the Newport merchants would feel the loss?

IN response to a telegraphic inquiry from the President, as to the extent of powers conferred on the Surgeon General of the Marine Hospital Service and the Secretary of the Treasury, with the President's approval, to make quarantine regulations with reference to immigration from infected ports, Attorney General MILLER has submitted an opinion. He holds that, consistently with state laws and regulations, it is entirely competent for Federal regulations to impose additional restrictions, and hence, also, the imposition of an additional period of quarantine or the total exclusion of all "vessels or vehicles coming from any foreign country where any contagious disease may exist, or vessels or vehicles conveying any person or persons, merchandise or animals affected with any infections or contagious disease, from any port in the United States," is within the powers conferred upon the officers named acting with the President's approval.

THE Democratic literary bureau, along with its vilification of Pension Commissioner RAUM, is disseminating an assertion that President CLEVELAND approved a greater number of pension bills than PRESIDENT HARRISON has done. The Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Congresses passed 2,042 private pension bills. Of these 232 were vetoed either by message or by pocketing, and 227 became laws by lapse of time without his approval, so that he approved only 1,518 of them.

PRESIDENT HARRISON AND PENSIONS.

The last Republican Congress passed 1,377 private pension bills, every one of which received President HARRISON'S approval and became a law. But then came in the present Democratic Congress with its overwhelming Southern control on Democratic side. As a result there were weeks following weeks when no private pension bill could ever obtain consideration in the House, to say nothing of being passed. No quorum could be mustered in a House with a Democratic majority of 140 to consider bills to pension old soldiers. It was only on the last private bill night of the session that the House, in a panic at the pension record it would have to go before the country with, shoveled 105 bills into the hopper and approved them in 150 minutes. But, with all this reckless haste to make a record, the first session of the Fifty-first Congress enacted only 133 private pension bills. These became laws with President HARRISON'S approval. Compare this 133 bills with the 819 of the first session of the Fifty-first Congress or even with the 747 bills which became laws at the first session of the Democratic Fiftieth Congress, and it is seen who is to blame for the apparently fewer number of bills approved by President HARRISON. Yet, unless the second session of this more than a "Billion Dollar Congress" makes the number of worthy pension bills less that ten, President HARRISON will still have approved more private pension bills than did President CLEVELAND in his full term.

These facts are stated because the Democrats seem insistent about figures. The figures seem superfluous when the unfeeling jocularity with which CLEVELAND dwelt upon the injuries to old soldiers in his pension vetoes is recalled. In his veto of the Total Disability Pension act of the Forty-ninth Congress, CLEVELAND struck at hundreds of thousands of pensioners who never obtained their rights until President HARRISON signed the Dependent Pension bill passed by the Republican Fifty-first Congress.

The other day President HARRISON attended a soldiers' reunion at Malone up in the mountain region of New York. Here is the way he closed the little speech he made:

"And now, comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic, surviving veterans of that gallant band that from these mountains and valleys went out to defend the flag, I give you a comrade's greeting today. God forgive the heartlessness of that American in this bright day of prosperity and unity who can begrudge to any one of you the just dues of your hard service."

AMONG the pupils at the State Deaf and Dumb Institution in Danville this year is Daisy Billings of Louisville, who is blind, deaf and dumb. She is nine years of age, has been deprived of sight and hearing since infancy, and her education will present some unusual problems. She is bright, and with every indication of a sound, healthy mind. With the remarkable cases of Laura Bridgeman and Helen Keller, who were similarly afflicted and yet became highly educated, as guides, the officers of the institution are hopeful of being able to do much for her mental development and the training of her moral nature. They have as yet adopted no plan for her education, but will do so soon, and her progress will be watched with interest by the officers of such institutions throughout the United States.

Her Confidence Was Well Founded.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter county, Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. This medicine can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases, both for children and adults. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Power & Reynolds.

NATURE'S DYE WORKS.

A Crystal Stream Bloodines Hair and Rouges Cheeks.

Had Ponce De Leon, in his search for the "fountain of youth," wended his way to Little Sandy, Elliott county, at a point about nine miles from here, and plunged beneath the placid waters of Red spring, he might not have had his days prolonged until now, but most certain it is his color would have been changed to a bright crimson.

On the Frese Hardin farm the Red spring is located, and for years has been used by the old ladies in that vicinity to color their carpet rugs, by the young ladies to color their dress goods and ribbons and to blondine their hair. The water of this spring looks as clear as crystal and is remarkably cold at this season of the year, much more so than the water of wells in that vicinity.

This water is much used at the approach of Easter Sunday to color eggs, and a strange thing about it is the difference in color upon articles of different quality or substance. The hair it blondines, colors eggs, ribbons and dress goods a crimson red, the flesh of persons a light blood red. The color is permanent in both cotton and silk goods dyed by the water. The blondining of the hair generally lasts about three weeks, while a person who bathes in its waters is given a coat that lasts about six weeks.

Soap applied to any article dyed by the water but strengthens the intensity of the color. People for miles around come and carry the water away in bottles, jugs and barrels, to use in dying various articles. A family by the name of Brand, whose numbers are quite large, and whose color has always been a phenomenon, is now explained, it is believed, by their having always used the water for drinking and bathing purposes. So long have they used it, says a dispatch from Greenup, Ky., to the Cincinnati Commercial Galette, that its qualities seem to have permeated their systems, and its effects are seen in their progeny to the fourth generation. They have known of this spring for years, and for a long time kept its qualities a secret, but it was divulged recently by a young man who had married into the family.

MARSHMALLOW ROASTS.

The Latest Diversion to Amuse the Ensnaled Summer Girl.

Marshmallow roasts are announced as the latest thing in the way of summer resort diversions, says the Buffalo Commercial. The simplicity of this form of amusement is particularly charming. One buys two or three pounds of marshmallows, invites half a dozen friends, and that is all the preparation required. However, a small amount of kindling wood must be taken along with which to build a small fire in an unfrequented spot on the beach, away from crowds unfamiliar with so refined a species of entertainment. When the fire is blazing merrily, or, better still, when it has died down to red embers, each member of the party takes a sharpened stick and affixes upon the end of it a marshmallow. Simultaneously all those engaged hold their marshmallows over the embers, as close as possible to avoid burning, and roast them carefully, turning the sticks around dexterously, so as to brown the marshmallows nicely on all sides. This requires some skill, because marshmallows are highly inflammable and will take fire if not very prudently handled. The most interesting point about the process is that the marshmallows in slowly roasting swell up to considerably more than their normal size. When done they are morsels for the gods, resembling in flavor the most excellent meringue, with a delicious nutty and crusty outside. They are a sort of sublimated combination of candy and cake, all in one bite, though the proper fashion is to nibble the roasted marshmallow off the end of the stick. One set consumed, each person pokes the point of his wooden skewer through another marshmallow, and the performance is repeated until everybody's appetite is satisfied. Marshmallow roasts are an excellent medium for flirtation, mutual regard between a young lady and a young gentleman being appropriately exhibited by nibbling the marshmallows off each other's sticks. Accordingly the idea is sure to grow in favor.

Foolish Convicts.

No little excitement was created in one of the London metropolitan police courts the other day by the disgraceful behavior of a man who, on being sentenced to three months' imprisonment for swindling, looked at the judges for a moment, and then shouted at the top of his voice: "You are a set of donkeys!" Then and there he was condemned to an additional two years' imprisonment for "grossly insulting the bench." It might have been imagined that the punishment with which his outrageous conduct had been visited would have deferred anyone who might have felt inclined to follow his bad example from doing so, but, strangely enough, the next prisoner who was brought forward acted in precisely the same way. Sentenced to a month's imprisonment as a "rogue and vagabond," he cried out lustily: "You are a lot of scoundrels!" and, like his predecessor, will prolong his sojourn in jail for the space of two years.

Work on the Danube.

The Danube river, which is the means of water communication for Vienna with the Red sea, is not navigable by large ships, owing to shoals and rapid currents; but the Austrian government is endeavoring to remove the obstacles, the chief of these being what is known as the Iron Gate, a rocky gorge between Roumania and Servia on the Hungarian boundary. The engineering work now being conducted for this purpose contemplates a channel some six thousand eight hundred feet long, the sides of the channel to be formed by two walls of masonry; the river bed between these walls to be blasted out, the amount of rock necessary to be thus removed being about three hundred and twenty-two thousand cubic yards, and in order to secure the necessary depth to the water the upper end of the walls has to be flared out to form a funnel-shaped channel.

John W. Stephens and his daughter, Mrs. Sallie Moran, have been visiting friends and relatives in Ohio.

Professor Martin of the Jersey Ridge School is moving right along. He has an average attendance of forty scholars.

Rev. J. R. Nelson and wife of Dover were here Sunday morning. He will leave for his new appointment this week.

Joseph Richardson and Thomas Kerr of Jersey Ridge have returned home after a month's visit in the great West.

S. N. Robinson attended the conference at Middlesborough and got an appointment to stay at home and attend to his fine farm next year.

The country people are beginning to take in the situation, and are cleaning up their premises. The cholera would be a very unwelcome visitor.

Patrick Osborne, whose illness we mentioned a few days ago, died at his home near here Saturday morning. Mr. Osborne was 78 years old and a respected citizen.

Rev. John Reeves, Presiding Elder, assisted by the new Pastor, Rev. Mr. Waldro, will hold quarterly meeting at the Old Stone Church next Saturday and Sunday.

J. J. Perrine, Agent, has sold the Mitchell farm of 112 acres lying near the mouth of Lawrence creek to Mrs. Eva Huber for $5,000, or about $45 per acre. Mrs. Huber now owns 330 acres of land and has still another farm in view.

Jerome Applegate has the books and papers necessary for a G. A. R. Post, he having belonged to one of the first Posts organized in Kentucky. It was organized at Sardis, Mason county, during the war Col. C. J. True and Mill Shockley organized it.

Our teacher, Professor Applegate, would like very much to have the school-house painted. Let us go to work and make up money and have it done at once. This would add much to its appearance. The patrons of the school can do the painting themselves. The cost of the paint would be very trifling.

Quite a number of young folks and old ones too, gathered at the home of Collins Ricketts Saturday evening to hear the Creek Band play. The following named persons compose the band: Collins Ricketts, W. H. Brittain, Roy Ricketts and Harry Richardson. While Miss Nannie Ricketts presides at the organ it goes without saying that they make good music.

LONDON'S LATEST "GLIDE."

The Man Revolves on His Heels, the Woman Tiptoeing the While.

Every year fresh absurdities crop up, not only in fashionable attire, but in dancing and deportment. I should think the waltzing of the present generation would make the shade of dear, delightful "Mr. Turveydrop" turn away from the earth with a shuddering sigh, says a writer in the New York Press. The very latest "London glide" necessitates a pole-like rigidity of arm and back that is painful enough to look at, and must be positive torture to the dancers, both male and female. To my barbarian eye the attitude taken by the "performing couples" is this: The man puts his right arm, not around his partner's waist, but high up, almost about her neck in fact, and with the elbows stiffly raised at an angle of forty-five degrees; on the extreme point of the elbow the lady's left hand is placed, not confidingly and delicately as of yore, but flatly, heavily and heavily, and also with much pointing of elbow. The right and left hands of man and woman then grasp each other with a "do or die" expression and are clasped against the masculine shirt bosom in the region of his collar, and then they revolve slowly, the man on his heels chiefly, and the woman not tiptoeing delicately, but flatly and without any motion of her body whatsoever. I wonder would a latter-day Byron describe it as "seductive!" Then suddenly one of the wooden-looking damsels is asked to dance, and every one sits down or stands up in a hollow square, and Miss Vere de Vere, with daintily lifted petticoats exposing exquisitely shod feet, trips it right merrily to the strains of "Encored 'Em in the Old Kent Road," or the "Barn Door Dance," while enthusiastic onlookers keep up a ripple of delighted comments.

SURGICAL SCIENCE OUTDONE.

An Operation to Remove Clotted Blood From a Woman's Side.

A special to The Commercial Gazette from Danville recalls the fact that that historic little city has ever been the home of renowned surgeons and the scene of marvelous and successful surgical operations. It was there that Ephriam McDowell first performed the operation of ovariotomy, and while peforming it there stood on the steps of his office a howling mob, thirsting for the blood of the eminent surgeon, should his patient fail to recover from the effects of the knife. In those days the surgeon had recourse only to anesthetic, and the subject suffered excruciatingly.

Of all the noted operations which have been performed there, however, none were more marvelous or more successful than one which saved the life of Mrs. Henry Lerner, a Russian Jewess, who has resided here for two years. The case is one of the most interesting in the history of surgery and has no parallel, and will furnish the medical societies an interesting theme for discussion.

The history of it, as detailed by the nurse in charge, is as follows: On Wednesday night Mrs. Lerner, who had been in the best of health until that time, was sitting up rather late sewing, when she was seized with violent pains in the abdomen, exclaiming in great agony, "Send for a doctor, quick, I am dying."

Dr. Fayette Dunlap was called in and administered one half grain of morphine, which barely allayed the great suffering of the patient. The following morning the physician made a more critical examination of the patient and found that there was a large lump in the abdomen on the left side. After a thorough diagnosis he pronounced it clotted blood in the abdominal cavity. Every symptom pointed to such a condition, and an operation was declared necessary to give the sufferer one chance in one thousand for recovery.

Thursday at noon Dr. J. W. Guest of Louisville and Drs. Monfort and Kincaid of Danville were called into consultation and agreed with Dr. Dunlap in his original diagnosis. It was decided to perform the operation at once and 2 o'clock was set for the hour.

After Mrs. Lerner had been removed to a cool clean room in the Central Hotel building and all the necessary preparations made, Dr. Guest administered the ether and Dr. Dunlap made an incision in the left side of the abdomen. About two inches pertinuous was severed a great mass of clotted blood surged to the surface of the opening. This was hastily cleared and the cavity flooded with water. The blood came freely and in a few moments fully two quarts of it were taken from the woman. As the second flow of water filled the cavity and cleared away the coloring matter a very peculiar incident occurred. On the top of the water there floated one end of an ordinary tape-worm. To say that the physicians were surprised in putting it very mildly indeed. Never before in the history of surgery had such a condition confronted an operator.

However, the surgeon in the case was equal to the emergency, and securing the end of the tape-worm he followed it up for several feet through which the worm had made its egress from the stomach. This opening was about the size of a silver quarter and had ragged edges, as if it had been gnawed out by some blunt substance. Through this opening the worm was followed for a short distance, and then one of its jaunts broke, leaving a large part within the stomach. A section was made in the bowels and speedily sewed, the abdomen was thoroughly rinsed with water, and the incision closed.

The patient speedily recovered from the ether, rallied from the shock, and at this writing shows every symptom of an early recovery.

The puzzling feature of the case is how that tape worm got through the intestines into the abdominal cavity. One theory advanced is that it ate its way through, another is that something caused an obstruction and the worm gradually forced itself into hall, which spread the bowel, finally bursting it. The latter theory seems the more probable, as the woman was taken with sudden pains, whereas, if there had been any gnawing going on in her vitals for any period she would have suffered continually until the worm had found an outlet. The section of the worm taken by the physicians measures seven feet three inches.

It is stated now that the First National Bank of Middlesborough has recovered from its cramps and that it is all right again.

The way in which the name "bureau" became applied to articles of furniture intended for literary purposes is rather curious. In the cautious days of the table, originally of wool, bore in France the name of bureau, and in course of time that name has attached itself to articles of furniture which have a space provided for some material for writing operations.

AN UPRISING.

The Negroes Threaten a General Massacre of Whites.

Ther Are Dissatisfied Over the New Election Law in Arkansas.

A General Fight Takes Place, and Four Negroes Are Killed and Several More Are Wounded—More Trouble Expected as the Blacks Are Angry.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 20.—Advices have reached here from Calhoun county that there is a general uprising of Negroes in Campagnolles township. The Negroes are dissatisfied with the new election law, and have threatened to annihilate every white man, woman and child in the township. Capt. James, an old and respected citizen went to a meeting of the blacks Saturday evening and tried to pacify them. A general fight ensued. Capt. James was shot in the leg, and four Negroes killed and several more wounded. More trouble is looked for, as the blacks are desperate, and in the hands of bad men.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Sept. 20.—Additional details of the Calhoun county race war have just now reached here, being brought by a freight conductor on the Cotton Belt railway. He states that it is reported at Thornton, a station twenty miles distant from where the trouble occurred, that nine Negroes and two white men were killed and several wounded Monday. A white people's party man was at the head of the Negroes, and it seems that trouble has been brewing ever since the election until Monday, when it came to a violent outbreak. Further particulars are not obtainable, as there is no telegraph connection with the seat of war.

A PASTOR WHIPPED.

He Had Spoken Disparagingly of the Women of His Coogregation.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—E. A. Bridger, pastor of the Congregational church at Jennings, was chastised in church by exasperated parishioners. The pastor had become unpopular on account of his plain speech on various occasions, and matters reached a crisis when he made the rounds of the town last week, going from store to store, and seeming to take pains to say that the women of the place were unchaste and that the whole town was a cesspool of iniquity.

A more than usually large number of people attended the church Sunday. At the close of the services D. E. M. Burke, a leading citizen, arose in his pew and asked the women to retire and requested the men to remain. The women withdrew and Burke proceeded to the pulpit, where Dr. Bridger remained.

Burke asked the minister if he had made the statement about the women of the place accredited to him and received the reply that he had. The minister said that he would stand by the allegations, as he was sure true in every particular. No sooner had he uttered the remark than Burke drew a cowhide and proceeded to dust the minister's garments to his heart's content. Dr. Bridger did not flinch under the punishment.

An Editor Assassinated.

SOMERSET, Ky., Sept. 20.—Joseph B. Rucker, editor of the Reporter, was assassinated Monday evening at 8 o'clock, while on his way home. It was the most dastardly and cold-blooded deed ever committed in this county, and everybody is filled with excitement. Mr. Rucker died at 12:30. Every clew is being worked to catch the man who did the dirty work, and we have it that the murderer will be caught before Tuesday night. There will be several witnesses introduced in court who will testify who did the shooting.

Colored Vigilants.

LARNED, Kan., Sept. 20.—The colored men of this city have organized a vigilance committee since the hanging of Hugh Henry, and have sworn vengeance on E. E. Frizzell and D. W. Hill, Henry's captors, and against several men who are supposed to be accessories to the leaders of the hanging-bee. Recently several men have been intimidated by blacks and one or two knocked down for commenting on the action of the mob. An armed patrol paraded the streets all last night.

Lillie Johnson's Trial Postponed.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 20.—The case of Lillie Johnson, who was indicted for the murder of Freda Ward in conjunction with Alice Mitchell, was called in the criminal court Monday. Miss Johnson's counsel asked that the case be disposed of, stating that his client was practically a prisoner, and in very bad health. The court set the case for October 8.

Chattanooga's Quarantine.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 20.—In accordance with the orders of the city council, a rigid inspection to prevent the ingress of cholera is made daily of twelve trains—four on the Nashville Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, four on the Cincinnati Southern and four on the main line of the East Tennessee system.

Inspecting All Trains.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 20.—Every train from Pittsburg and other seaboard cities is being rigidly inspected by sanitary officials, and the quarantine is now working very satisfactorily. Thus far no cholera cases or suspects have been found by the officials.

Drowned in a Slop Jar.

WINAMAC, Ind., Sept. 20.—The youngest son of John Kopka, a wealthy farmer of this county, while playing outdoors accidentally fell into an earthern jar filled with slop, where it was found an hour afterward dead.

Hugh O'Donnell's Hearing.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 20.—Hugh O'Donnell was given a hearing Monday on his application for release on bail to answer the charge of murder preferred against him by Secretary Lovejoy. Several witnesses were examined, and the hearing was continued until Tuesday.

ONE DEATH

From Cholera at Camp Low—Several Other Suspicious Cases.

CAMP LOW, SANDY HOOK, N. J., Sept. 20.—It was officially announced Monday night that Asiatic cholera has broken out here. Francesco Moreno, a Normannia passenger, who was landed here Sunday morning, died of the disease in a tent, where he had been isolated at 10 p. m. The body will be cremated at Swinburne island.

A widow, name unknown, who was accompanied by her four small children, was taken ill with every symptom of the disease shortly after 11 p. m., and Dr. Rauch, the cholera expert, immediately had the family removed from the room in the pavilion to an isolated tent.

The man's death is said to have been largely due to excesses in which he indulged on Monday night. Great excitement prevails among the officials of the camp, and fears are entertained of a stampede of the people here from fear when the fact is made public.

The dead man and the infected family were passengers by the Normonnia, and have been in quarantine for eighteen days past.

DROPPED DEAD

While Digging a Grave—Scene in an Indianapolis Cemetery.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 20.—A child named Rooker was buried some days ago at the county's expense in pauper grounds. Afterward the father exhumed the body and found it stowed away in a candle box, while the county was charged for a Christian burial. Chas. Girton, county undertaker, tried to lay the blame on a man named Buckenridge, county grave-digger, but pending an investigation he resigned. Prior thereto an old man named Hamilton died. His aged wife had no funds, and she remained alone with the corpse for nearly two days, the township trustee having failed to notify the undertaker. Monday afternoon, while Buckenridge was digging Hamilton's grave, he fell dead therein himself, and when the funeral cortege came the mourners found the grave already occupied.

BANK RAIDED.

The Masked Robbers Secured About Three Thousand Dollars.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 20.—A bold raid was made Monday afternoon on the bank at Dexter, a short distance from this place. At 1:35 o'clock the cashier, J. W. Watkins, chanced to be alone in the bank. Two men with their faces concealed behind masks entered the side door of the bank, and with drawn pistols commanded the cashier to hand out what money there was in the cash drawer and safe. The cashier showed reluctance in obeying the order, but a bullet which went whizzing past his head from the revolver of one of the robbers decided him to obey, and he handed out to the robbers about $3,000 in currency. The robbers quickly secured the money and rode away.

EXPLOSION OF NATURAL GAS.

It Takes Fire and Two Acres of Ground Are Covered by Flames.

KOKOMO, Ind., Sept. 20.—At Jerome, eight miles east of this city, the villagers were thrown from their beds by a terrific explosion. Rushing out to the doors, they were horrified to find that a quarter of a mile away, at the junction of Lily creek and Wildcat river, two acres of ground had disappeared. The gaping crater was filled with a seething mass of flame that reached Kokomo's signora. The flame has been extinguished at the scene of the explosion, showing the earth disturbance to be less than first supposed. It was a gas well that exploded. It shot up a tremendous mass of earth, water and gas, covering quite two acres, and the gas immediately ignited.

TO JAIL FIRST.

Commissioner Peck Says He Will Not Break His Plighted Word.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Labor Commissioner Peck, who is now in this city, when asked as to the truth of the statement that he had burned or caused to be destroyed the individual reports from which his report was compiled, said:

"The papers have not been and will not be destroyed, but Mr. Anderson and the other mugwumps or anti-snappers, as they call themselves, will not get them. I obtained most of those reports on my personal pledge that no names should be disclosed. I could not have obtained the data otherwise, as the law does not give me power to require facts concerning any man's private business. The same rule holds good in all the states where there are statistical bureaus, and also in obtaining figures for the United States census.

"In Massachusetts it is by statute made a misdemeanor to reveal such facts. I wrote personal letters to thousands of manufacturers who had refused to send figures asked for in my circular, and on my promise to keep their names secret they intrusted me with the facts. I will not break my plighted word no matter what the consequences. I will go to jail first.

'No matter what the correctness of my figures themselves may be. They were a surprise—disagreeable. If you will, but a surprise—to me. I had expected it to be all the other way, and the first tabulation on the silk industry was our way, but nine-tenths of the others, both individually and by trades, showed large increases in both production and the wages paid.

"It was the most searching investigation ever made in this state and the figures are correct. They are borne out by those obtained by Commissioner Wadlin, of Massachusetts and by Commissioner Peele, of Indiana, who is a staunch democrat. He, like myself, began the investigation in the expectation of obtaining different results.

"I worked on the line of the facts obtained from manufacturers. while he took those obtained from the workmen themselves, yet our figures coincide exactly."
